Certificate, Editing and Proofreading Made Simple, LinkedIn (September 2017)

VOLUNTEER WORK

- I write candid and scrupulous pre-release reviews on my blog of middle-grade climate fiction books that “empower, inspire and move the world forward,” at the request of publicists at Books Forward, a JKS Communications company.
- As a mentor through the Northwest Editors Guild, I help aspiring and seasoned editors navigate the path to achieving their career goals by providing them with a foundation to succeed in the editing industry. I answer their questions, introduce them to colleagues in the publishing industry, and provide useful tools, such as recommended reading materials and templates. (2021 – Present)
- Serving as book awards judge for the Independent Publishers of New England (IPNE), I evaluate literary and genre fiction—front and back cover, interior layout and design, content and structure, text mechanics, writing quality, and overall impact. I also provide practical and applicative constructive feedback that is shared anonymously with authors so they may learn and further develop their craft. (2022 – Present)
